Handling Push Notifications in client applications

Overview

Before iOS, Android and Windows Native-based or Cordova-based applications are able to receive and display incoming push notifications, the application must first be set-up, and APIs must be implemented.

Refer to the following topics to learn how to handle incoming push notifications in client applications:

Last modified on